

Review of Pride and Prejudice

Pride and Prejudice was written in 1813 by Jane Austen. The story is a romance and it takes place in England.

The protagonists are 5 sisters : Jane, Elizabeth, Mary, Kitty and Lydia. Their mother, Mrs. Bennet, is a foolish woman whose main aim is to find rich husbands for her daughters, as after the death of their father they won't inherit any fortune. When she hears that they'll have a new, wealthy neighbor she wants him to marry one of her daughters. His name is Mr. Bingley and he soon falls in love with Mrs. Bennet's eldest daughter Jane. But it seems that their love can't go far because of Mr. Darcy, the proud and arrogant Mr. Bingley's friend. He likes Elizabeth but he is too proud to admit it, she likes him too but she has so many prejudices about him that she can't think of loving him.

All the characters are interesting and the story is amusing. For me it was very pleasant reading this book because the writing style really gives you a sense of the place it's set in and I really loved the way the author described the 19th-century manners . I would recommend this novel to anyone who likes romantic and exciting love stories.
